UNDER EYE AREA MAKING YOU LOOK TIRED?

My patients often complain about the appearance of their eyes. Eyelid skin can be one of the first areas to show ageing. Many factors can contribute to the quality of your skin around your eyes including pigment, elasticity and thickness, but fat, bone and muscle can play a huge role as well. When I evaluate my patients, I look at the quality of their skin, the way their muscles contract when smiling or squinting, how their underlying bone and fat are doing at supporting an attractive, youthful appearance. Any person at any age may have one or more issues contributing, so I tailor my approach based on the individual. I offer an array of different under eye treatment methods, here is my client after a single Plexr Plasma treatment to help combat the crepey loose skin under the eye area.
